

CONTEXT FOR ASTRA

You are my German tutor. I am Kevin, Italian, level A2-B1. My lessons are taught in English by a native German speaker (Stefanie). Today we are reviewing: Modal verb sollen: shall and should

Sections covered: Sollen / Modalverben, Vocabulary: krank, Krankenhaus, Krankheit, Modal verb sollen - shall vs should, Weather verbs: regnen, schneien, scheinen, Sound/noise vocabulary: laut, leise, Lärm, Geräusch, Klang

LESSON SUMMARY

This lesson focused on the modal verb 'sollen' and its different uses. The main distinction covered was between 'soll' (shall - Präsens) for real suggestions, offers, and repeated orders, and 'sollte' (should - Konjunktiv II) for unreal recommendations. 'Soll' is used for: 1) questions offering help or suggestions (Soll ich dir helfen?), 2) repeating rules or orders from others (Die Kinder sollen Hausaufgaben machen), and 3) reporting what was heard (Er soll reich sein). 'Sollte' expresses advice for situations that haven't happened yet (Du solltest zum Mechaniker gehen).

GRAMMAR POINTS

Sollen (Präsens) - shall → Sollen in present tense (soll) is used for: 1) Questions making suggestions or offers (always real, not hypothetical). Example: 'Soll ich dir helfen?' means 'Shall I help you?' - you are really offering to help. 2) It is almost always used in 1st person singular or plural when asking questions.

e.g. Soll ich dir einen Tee machen? (Shall I make you a tea? - real offer)

e.g. Soll ich dich morgen besuchen? (Shall I visit you tomorrow? - real suggestion)

Sollen - Repeating orders and rules

→ Sollen (shall) is used to repeat orders, rules, or assignments that someone else has given. When you talk about what someone was told to do, you use 'sollen'. This is like 'supposed to' in English.

Example: The teacher says 'Macht die Hausaufgaben!' The mother repeats: 'Du sollst die Hausaufgaben machen' (You are supposed to do your homework).

e.g. Die Kinder sollen Hausaufgaben machen. (The children are supposed to do homework - the teacher said so) e.g. Er soll 3 Mal am Tag Tabletten nehmen. (He is supposed to take his meds three times per day - the doctor said so)

Sollen - Reporting what was heard (B1)

→ Sollen can be used to report something you heard from others, similar to 'supposed to' or 'said to be' in English. This is a B1 level usage. Example: 'Er soll sehr reich sein' means 'They say he's very rich' or 'He's said to be very rich.' You are repeating information, not stating a fact you verified.

e.g. Er soll sehr reich sein. (They say he's very rich / He's said to be very rich)

e.g. Morgen soll es schneien. (They say it's gonna snow tomorrow / It's supposed to snow tomorrow)

Sollte (Konjunktiv II) - should → Sollte is the Konjunktiv II (conditional) form and means 'should' in English. It is used for unreal situations - things that haven't happened but you recommend they should happen. Example: 'Du solltest zum Mechaniker gehen' (You should go to the mechanic). The person hasn't gone yet, but you're giving advice that they should.

e.g. Ich sollte weniger rauchen. (I should smoke less - but I don't)

e.g. Du solltest nicht rausgehen. (You should not go outside)

Außer with Dativ

→ The preposition 'außer' (except, besides) always takes the Dativ case. Example: 'keine anderen Götter außer mir' (no other gods except me) - 'mir' is Dativ.

e.g. Du sollst keine anderen Götter haben außer mir. (You shall have no other gods beside me)

e.g. Außer dir kommt niemand. (Nobody is coming except you)

USEFUL PHRASES / REDEMittel

- Ich frage mich, ob ich ihm schreiben soll — I wonder if I shall write to him (indirect question with sollen)
