

CONTEXT FOR ASTRA

You are my German tutor. I am Kevin, Italian, level A2-B1. My lessons are taught in English by a native German speaker (Stefanie). Today we are reviewing: Comparison of adjectives and adverbs

Sections covered: 21. Komparation

LESSON SUMMARY

This lesson covered the comparison of adjectives (Komparation) in German: positive, comparative, and superlative forms. Kevin learned the three main patterns: regular formation with -er/-sten, formation with umlaut, and irregular forms. The lesson included expressions of equality (genauso/so...wie) and inequality (comparative + als, nicht so...wie). Special superlative forms with 'am' and as adjectives before nouns were practiced. The Genitive case appeared in fixed expressions like 'der Welt'. Vocabulary included separable verbs (losfahren, spaziergehen) and discussion about developing similar AI systems for finance.

GRAMMAR POINTS

Comparative Formation (Komparativ)

→ The comparative is formed by adding -er to the adjective. Many one-syllable adjectives with a, o, or u add an umlaut. The comparison uses 'als' (than) for inequality: Die Giraffe ist größer als die Maus. Unlike English, German never uses 'mehr' (more) + adjective except with 'viel'.

e.g. Die Giraffe ist größer als die Maus. (The giraffe is bigger than the mouse.)

e.g. Der Zug ist schneller als das Auto. (The train is faster than the car.)

Superlative Formation (Superlativ)

→ The superlative has two forms: 1) Predicative with 'am' + adjective + -(e)sten: 'Der Elefant ist am größten' 2) Attributive before nouns with article + adjective + -(e)ste + declension ending: 'das größte Tier'. Add -e- before -sten when stem ends in -d, -t, -s, -ß, -sch, -x, -z for pronunciation. Many one-syllable adjectives add umlaut.

e.g. Der Hamster ist am kleinsten. (The hamster is the smallest.)

e.g. Der Elefant ist am größten von allen. (The elephant is the biggest of all.)

Expressing Equality (Gleichheit)

→ To express that two things are equal, use 'so...wie' or 'genauso...wie' (just as...as). The adjective stays in positive form without any comparative ending: 'Der Hamster ist (genau)so klein wie die Maus' means they are equally small.

e.g. Der Hamster ist so klein wie die Maus. (The hamster is as small as the mouse.)

e.g. Der Hamster ist genauso klein wie die Maus. (The hamster is just as small as the mouse.)

Expressing Inequality (Ungleichheit)

→ To express inequality without using comparative directly, use 'nicht so...wie' (not as...as). This replaces the Italian 'meno...di' construction which doesn't exist in standard German. Example: 'Die Maus ist nicht so groß wie die Giraffe' (The mouse is not as big as the giraffe).

e.g. Die Maus ist nicht so groß wie die Giraffe. (The mouse is not as big as the giraffe.)

e.g. Die Giraffe ist nicht so klein wie die Maus. (The giraffe is not as small as the mouse.)

Genitive in Fixed Expressions

→ The Genitive case appears in certain fixed expressions, especially with 'der Welt' (of the world). Formation: die Welt (nom.) → der Welt (gen.). Example: 'Der Elefant ist das größte Tier der Welt' (The elephant is the biggest animal in the world). With proper names, add -s without apostrophe: 'Das ist Kevins Haus' (NOT Kevin's Haus).

e.g. Der Elefant ist das größte Tier der Welt. (The elephant is the biggest animal in the world.)

e.g. Das ist Kevins Haus. (That is Kevin's house.)
